Who Are We ?

We are a creative group of graphic designers who believe in the power of visual storytelling, Each of us brings a unique style and skill set, but we work as one team with one goal. Together, we aimed to design something that leaves a lasting impression. !

Our vision for reviving the Alexandria Aquarium Museum.

WHY?

We chose the Alexandria Aquarium Museum because it's a hidden gem that deserves more attention.

Despite its unique marine life and historical value, it's often overlooked by visitors due to its limited visibility and outdated presentation.

As graphic designers, we saw a chance to reintroduce it in a fresh, engaging way making people curious to explore what's inside.

OBJECTIVES

- Awareness & Engagement – Educate the public about the aquarium's history and exhibits
- Visual Appeal & Branding – Develop an attractive visual identity with marine-themed designs, posters, and a mascot for relatability.
- Accessibility & Visitor Information – Provide clear maps, visiting details, and updates on restorations to enhance the visitor experience.

BENEFITS

- Rebranding the Alexandria Aquarium Museum modernizes its identity, enhances visitor experience, and attracts a wider audience.
- It strengthens digital presence, boosts revenue, and improves competitiveness.
- Clearer visual communication and updated designs highlight the museum's heritage, making it a more engaging and must-visit destination.

The background of the slide is a deep blue underwater scene filled with numerous small, dark-colored fish swimming in various directions. The lighting is slightly dimmer towards the bottom, creating a sense of depth. At the top of the slide, there is a thin white horizontal line with two small white squares on either end, resembling a window control bar.

Brochure & Booklet

Overview

The Alexandria Aquarium is a small but historically significant attraction located right next to the Qaitbay Citadel. Established in 1930, it was one of the earliest aquariums in Egypt, aimed at showcasing marine life from the Mediterranean and Red Seas, as well as the Nile River.

What to Expect:

Displays of local marine and freshwater species such as eels, turtles, catfish, and crustaceans.

Some preserved specimens and historical models.

A quick walk-through experience. The aquarium is compact, making it a nice add-on to a visit to the Qaitbay Citadel.

Tips:

Combine your visit with the nearby Qaitbay Citadel and enjoy beautiful sea views.

The aquarium has a vintage, educational feel, not a modern design.

Best for visitors interested in marine biology or Alexandria's heritage.

Interesting Topics

1. Historic Gem by the Sea

Tell about how the aquarium is nearly a century old, opened in 1930, during King Fouad I's reign.

Mention that it's one of the oldest aquariums in Egypt, and it preserves a slice of Alexandria's marine exploration history.

2. Egypt's Three Water Worlds

Showcase how it brings together marine life from:

The Mediterranean Sea

The Red Sea

The Nile River

3. Local Marine Species

Highlight unique or native species on display, like Nile catfish, Mediterranean moray eels, or colorful Red Sea fish.

Add a small "Did you know?" section with a quirky marine fact.

4. It's Right Beside a Castle!

Tell about how the Qaitbay Citadel, built on the ruins of the ancient Lighthouse of Alexandria, is right next door, making it a 2-in-1 historic stop.

Suggest an itinerary: "See the sea treasures, then the sea fortress!"

5. Old-School Charm

Describe how the aquarium still retains a retro, educational feel like walking into a 20th-century museum.

Mention the preserved specimens in jars, old dipping cases, and vintage posters.

6. Perfect for a Short Break

Great for travelers who want a quick, low-key stop between sightseeing.

Especially fun for families with kids. It's small, manageable, and educational.

7. Off the Beaten Path

It's not a flashy tourist hotspot, but a quiet gem that gives you a break from crowds.

A nice place for travelers interested in authentic, lesser-known experiences.

8. Marine Preservation

You could mention that the aquarium has connections with the National Institute of Oceanography and Fisheries (NIOF).

It's not just a display place. It's also part of marine education and research in Egypt.
